- 1 The Sixth Form College, Solihull is a further education corporation incorporated under the Further & Higher Education Act 1992.
- 2 If the Corporate Board of The Sixth Form College, Solihull felt that the College's students would be better served by transferring control to another organisation, for example by merging with another institution), responsibility for current students would transfer to the other institution.
- 3 If The Sixth Form College, Solihull became insolvent, then under the terms of the Technical & Further Education Bill currently before Parliament, the Secretary of State for Education has powers to appoint an education administrator with legal duties to protect learners as well as creditors. Ministers have explained that protection would take the form of transferring the College's operations to another institution.
